Woods, LaFortune LLP is a specialized trade law boutique based in Canada's capital, Ottawa. We advise clients on all aspects of international trade and investment regulations and provide tailored guidance to firms looking to enter the Canadian market. Woods, LaFortune LLP represents clients' interests with government officials and before administrative tribunals, and the courts. Active member of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian American Business Council, the firm has a particular focus on Canada -U.S. transactions and a passion for helping build North American business partnerships. With a combined 75 years of experience and knowledge, we take on all matters related to the movement of goods, investment, services, and intellectual property rights. Founding partners Gordon LaFortune and Michael Woods each bring a unique balance of government and private sector experience that includes a long list of anti-dumping and subsidy actions, import and export controls, market access, and trade disputes including investment claims under NAFTA Chapter 11. Paul Moen is a trade law and policy expert adapt at advising international companies on finding and doing business in Canada and guiding clients through the maze of government regulations and process. Catherine Walsh combines her growing trade law experience with her corporate work and MBA training to help companies build strong strategies and effective business plans.
